

ABSTRACT

A machining unit corresponding to a cursor position in an editor section and in a synthetic model of a product model and a work model displayed in a model display section 5 is highlight-displayed, and at the time of editing a created NC creation program, it is clearly determined to which machining unit on the model the cursor position in the editor section corresponds.